HOW THEY VIEW IT

Democrats in Washington Pleased with Bryan's Letter.

OTHERS SURPRISED AT ITS SHORTNESS

His Managers Consider It a Strong Document, as It Covers Only the Main Questions Now Before the American People and Does Not Go Over Old Ground.

Washington, Sept. 10.—William J. Bryan's letter of acceptance was read with much interest at the different political headquarters here, and among all but the democratic leaders its shortness was a surprise. Mr. Bryan's declaration, often before embodied in his speeches, that he would not accept a second nomination if elected is considered by democrats as one of the strong points. Regarding this he says: "So deeply am I impressed with the magnitude of the power vested by the constitution in the chief executive of the nation, and with the enormous influence he can wield for the benefit or injury of the people, that I wish to enter the office, if elected, free from any personal desire, except the desire to prove worthy of the confidence of my country. Human judgment is fallible enough when unbiased by selfish considerations, and in order that I may not be tempted to use the patronage of an office to advance any personal ambition I hereby renounce, with all the emphasis which words can express, my fixed determination not, under any circumstances, to be a candidate for re-election in case this campaign results in my election."

Considered a Strong Document.

At democratic headquarters the letter is considered extremely strong for two reasons. It is short and covers only the main points at issue, and in the present flood of political literature can be more easily digested than if it had gone into points already thoroughly covered by Mr. Bryan in his speech of acceptance and numerous addresses. That this was his intention is made clear by the following paragraph taken from the introduction of his letter, the main points of the document then following: "Having discussed portions of the platform at the time of its adoption, and again when your letter of notification was formally delivered, it will not be necessary at this time to touch upon all the subjects embraced in the party's declarations. Honest differences of opinion have ever existed and ever will exist as to the most effective means of securing domestic tranquility, but no citizen fails to recognize at all times and under all circumstances the absolute necessity for the prompt and vigorous enforcement of law and the preservation of the public peace. In a government like ours law is but the crystalization of the will of the people; without it the citizen is neither secure in the enjoyment of life and liberty, nor protected in the pursuit of happiness. Without obedience to law, government is impossible. The democratic party is pledged to defend the constitution and enforce the laws of the United States, and it is also pledged to protect and defend the dual scheme of government instituted by the founders of the republic. The name United States was happily chosen. It combines the idea of national strength with the idea of local self-government, and suggests an indissoluble union of indestructible states.' Our wise forefathers, fearing the tendency toward centralization, as well as the dangers of disintegration, guarded against both, and national safety, as well as domestic security, is to be found in the careful observance of the limitations which they impose. It will be noticed that, while the United States guarantees to every state a republican form of government, and is empowered to protect such state against invasion, it is not authorized to interfere in the domestic affairs of any state except upon application of the legislature of the state or upon the application of the executive when the legislature cannot be convened. This provision rests upon the sound theory that the people of the state, acting through their legally chosen representatives are, because of their more intimate acquaintance with local conditions, better qualified than the president to judge of the necessity for federal assistance. Those who framed our constitution wisely determined to make as broad an application of the principles of local self-government as circumstances would permit and we cannot dispute the correctness of the position taken by the people themselves.

No Excuse for Bond Issues.

"An increase in the bonded debt of the United States at this time is entirely without excuse. The issue of interest-bearing bonds within the last few years has been defended on the ground that they were necessary to secure gold with which to redeem United States notes and treasury notes; but this necessity has been imaginary rather than real. Instead of exercising the legal right vested in the United States to redeem its bonds in either gold or silver, the executive branch of the government has followed a precedent established by a former administration and surrendered the option to the holder of the obligations. This administrative policy leaves the government at the mercy of those who find a pecuniary profit in bond issues. The act that the dealers in money securities have been able to deplete or protect the treasury according to their changing whims, shows how dangerous it is to permit them to exercise a controlling influence over the treasury department. The government of the United States, when administered in the interest of all the people, is able to establish and maintain its own financial policy, not only without the aid of any syndicates, but in spite of any opposition which the syndicates may exert. To assert that the government is dependent upon the assistance or good will of a portion of the people other than a constitutional majority, is to assert that we have a government in form, but without vital force.

National Bank Currency.

The position taken by the platform against the issue of paper money by the national banks is supported by the highest democratic authority, as well as demanded by the interests of the people. The present attempt of the national banks to force the retirement of United States notes and treasury notes, in order to secure a basis for a larger issue of their own notes, illustrates the danger which arises from permitting them to issue their paper as a circulating medium. The national bank note being redeemable in lawful money has never been better than the United States note, which stands behind it, and yet the banks persistently demand that the United States notes, which draw no interest, shall give place to interest-bearing bonds in order that the banks may collect the interest which the people now save. To empower national banks to issue circulating notes is to grant a valuable privilege to a favored class, and in order to private corporations the control over the volume of paper money, and build up a class which will claim a vested interest in the national financial policy. The United States notes, commonly known as greenbacks, being redeemable in either gold or silver at the option of the government, and not at the option of the holder, are safer and cheaper for the people than national bank notes based upon interest-bearing bonds.

The Monroe Doctrine.

A dignified but firm maintenance of the foreign policy first set forth by President Monroe and reiterated by the presidents who have succeeded him, instead of arousing hostility abroad, is the best guarantee of amicable relations with other nations. It is better for all concerned that the United States should resist any extension of European authority in the western hemisphere rather than invite the continual irritation which would necessarily result from any attempt to increase the influence of monarchial institutions over that portion of the Americas which has been dedicated to republican government.

Pensions.

No nation can afford to be unjust to its defenders. The care of those who have suffered in the military and naval service of the country is a sacred debt. A nation which, like the United States, relies upon volunteer service rather than upon a large standing army adds to its own security when it makes generous provision for those who have risked their lives in its defense and for those who are dependant upon them.

Injunctions.

The recent abuses which have grown out of injunction proceedings have been so emphatically condemned by public opinion that the senate bill providing for trial by jury in certain contempt cases will meet with general approval.

Trusts.

The democratic party is opposed to trusts. It would be recreant to its duty to the people of the country if it recognized either the moral or the legal right of these great aggregations of wealth to stifle competition, bankrupt rivals and then prey upon society. Corporations are creatures of the law, and they must not be permitted to pass from under the control of the power which created them; they are permitted to exist upon the theory that they advance the public weal, and they must not be allowed to use their powers for the public injury.

The Producers of Wealth.

Labor creates capital. Until wealth is produced by the application of brain and muscle to the resources of this country there is nothing to divide among the non-producing classes of society. Since the producers of wealth create the nation's prosperity in time of peace and defend the nation's flag in time of peril, their interests ought at all times to be considered by those who stand in official positions. The democratic party has ever found its voting strength among those who are proud to be known as the common people, and it pledges itself to propose and enact such legislation as is necessary to protect the masses in the free exercise of every political right and in the enjoyment of their just share of the rewards of their labor.

Arbitration.

"I desire to give special emphasis to the plank which recommends such legislation as is necessary to secure the arbitration of differences between employers engaged in interstate commerce and their employes. Arbitration is not a new idea—it is simply an extension of the court of justice. The laboring men of the country have expressed a desire for arbitration, and the railroads cannot reasonably object to the decisions rendered by an impartial tribunal. Society has an interest even greater than the interest of employer or employe and has a right to protect itself by courts of aritration against the growing inconvenience and embarrassments occasioned by disputes between those who own the great arteries of commerce on the one hand and the laborers who operate them upon the other.

Immigration.

"While the democratic party welcomes to the country those who come with love for our institutions and with determination and ability to contribute to the prosperity of our nation, it is opposed to the dumping of criminal classes upon our shores and to the importation of either pauper or contract labor to compete with American labor.

Railroads and Civil Service.

"The right of the United States government to regulate interstate commerce cannot be questioned, and the necessity for the vigorous exercise of that right is becoming more and more imperative. The government cannot afford to discriminate between its debtors and must therefore prosecute its legal claims against the Pacific railroads. Such a policy is necessary for the protection of the rights of the patrons, as well as for the interests of the government. That the American people are not in favor of life tenure in the civil service is evident from the fact that they, as a rule, make frequent changes in their official representatives when those representatives are chosen by ballot. A fixed term in appointive office, except where the federal constitution now provides otherwise, would open the public service to a larger number of citizens without impairing its efficiency.

The Tariff.

"It is not necessary to discuss the tariff question at this time. Whatever may be the individual views of citizens as to the relative merits of protection and tariff reform, all must recognize that until the money question is fully and finally settled the American people will not consent to the consideration of any other important question. Taxation presents a problem which in some form is continually present, and a postponement of definite action upon it involves no sacrifice of personal opinion or political principles; but the crisis presented by financial conditions cannot be postponed. Tremendous results will follow the action taken by the United States on the money question and delay is impossible. The people of this nation, sitting as a high court, must render judgment in the cause which greed is prosecuting against humanity. The decision will either give hope and inspiration to those who toil, or 'shut the doors of mercy on mankind.' In the presence of this overshadowing issue, differences of opinion upon minor questions must be laid aside in order that there may be united action among those who are determined that progress toward a universal gold standard shall be stayed and the gold and silver standard of the constitution restored.

W. J. BRYAN."

Funeral of Former Senator Payne

Cleveland, O., Sept. 10.—The funeral of Henry B. Payne, former United States senator and father-in-law of William C. Whitney, ex-secretary of the navy, who died yesterday at his home on Euclid avenue, will take place tomorrow afternoon. The death of Mrs. Payne and a daughter, Mrs. W. C. Whitney, occurred only a few years ago. The only surviving children are Col. O. H. Payne and Mrs. C. W. Bingham, both of New York city.

South Carolina Election Returns.

Columbia, S. C., Sept. 10.—The backwoods precincts now being received improve Earle's lead. Earle now has 35,842. Evans 25,576; Earle's majority is 10,266 out of this vote. Allowing a total vote of 85,000, and giving Evans the improbable amount of two-thirds of the outstanding vote, it will give Earle a final majority of 2,500 votes. Earle's majority will be at the lowest estimate about 5,000.

Black Declines the Nomination.

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Gen. John C. Black, who is United States district attorney in Chicago, has sent his expected letter to the Illinois committee of the national democratic party, declining the nomination of governor, which was given him, August 25.

New Jersey Democrats.

Trenton, Sept. 10.—The democratic state convention yesterday afternoon selected presidential electors and instructed them to cast their ballots for Bryan and Sewall. Resolutions indorsing the Chicago platform and ticket were adopted.

Fierce Storm at Buzzards Bay.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Sept. 10.—A fierce storm of wind and rain raged here all day yesterday.

HOBART'S LETTER

Accepting the Republican Vice-Presidential Nomination.

IMPORTANCE OF THE MONEY QUESTION

Bimetallic Currency as We Now Have Approved by the Republicans—A Standard and a Currency Vastly Different Things—Urgent Need of a Change in Tariff Law.

Paterson, N. J., Sept. 10.—Garrett A. Hobart's letter accepting the republican vice-presidential nomination is made public to-day. The main points follow:

Hon. Charles W. Fairbanks and others of the notification committee of the republican national convention:

Gentlemen—I have already, in accepting the nomination of the office of the vice-presidency tendered me by the national republican convention, expressed my approval of the platform adopted by that body as the party basis of doctrine. In accordance with accepted usage I beg now to supplement that brief statement of my views by some additional reflections upon the questions which are in debate before the American people.

The Money Question.

The platform declarations in reference to the money question express clearly and unmistakably the attitude of the republican party as to this supremely important subject. We stand unqualifiedly for honesty in finance, and the permanent adjustment of our monetary system, in the multifarious activities of trade and commerce, to the existing gold standard of value. We hold that every dollar of currency issued by the United States, whether of gold, silver or paper, must be worth a dollar in gold, whether in the pocket of the man who toils for his daily bread, in the vault of the savings bank which holds his deposits, or in the exchanges of the world. The money standard of a great nation should be as fixed and permanent as the nation itself. To secure and retain the best should be the desire of every right-minded citizen. The dollar of our country, whether of gold or silver, should be of the full value of one hundred cents, and by so much as any dollar is worth less than this in the market, by precisely that sum will some one be defrauded.

Not Opposed to the Use of Silver.

The necessity of a certain and fixed money value between nations as well as individuals has grown out of the interchange of commodities, the trade and business relationships which have arisen among the peoples of the world, with the enlargement of human wants and the broadening of human interests. This necessity has made gold the final standard of all enlightened nations. Other metals, including silver, have a recognized commercial value, and silver, especially, has a value of great importance for subsidiary coinage. In view of a sedulous effort by the advocates of free coinage to create a contrary impression, it cannot be too strongly emphasized that the republican party in its platform affirms this value in silver, and favors the largest possible use of this metal as actual money that can be maintained with safety. Not only this, it will not antagonize, but will gladly assist in promoting a double standard whenever it can be secured by agreement and co-operation among the nations. The bimetallic currency, involving the free use of silver, which we now have, is cordially approved by republicans. But a standard and a currency are vastly different things.

Must Cease Juggling.

If we are to continue to hold our place among the great commercial nations we must cease juggling with this question and make our honesty of purpose clear to the world. No room should be left for misconception as to the meaning of the language used in the bonds of the government not yet matured. It should not be possible for any party or individual to raise a question as to the purpose of the country to pay all its obligations in the best form of money recognized by the commercial world. It is desirable that we should make it known at once and authoritatively that an "honest dollar" means any dollar equivalent to a gold dollar of the present standard of weight and fineness.

Fraud Upon All Persons.

The free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 is a policy which no nation has ever before proposed, and it is not to-day permitted in any mint in the world—not even in Mexico. It is purposed to make the coinage unlimited, at an absolutely fictitious ratio, fixed with no reference to intrinsic value or pledge of ultimate redemption. With silver at its present price of less than seventy cents per ounce in the market, such a policy means an immediate profit to the seller of silver for which there is no return now or hereafter to the people or the government. Any attempt on the part of the government to create by its fiat money of a fictitious value would dishonor us in the eyes of other peoples and bring infinite reproach upon the national character. The business and financial consequences of such an immoral act would be world-wide. Such free coinage legislation, if ever consummated, would discriminate against every producer of wheat, cotton, corn or rye—who would in justice be equally entitled, with the silver owner, to sell his products to the United States treasury at a profit fixed by the government—and against all producers of iron, steel, zinc or copper, who might properly claim to have their metals made into current coin. It would, as well, be a fraud upon all persons forced to accept a currency thus stimulated and at the same time degraded. In every respect the proposed policy is partial and one-sided.

[The letter then at some length points out a number of great interests that would suffer and the calamity that would follow if the Chicago platform was permitted to be carried out.]

Cannot Sanction Wholesale Spoliation.

The proposition for free and unlimited silver coinage, carried to its logical conclusion, and but one is possible, means, as before intimated, legislative warrant for the repudiation of all existing indebtedness, public and private, to the extent of nearly 50 per cent. of the face of all such indebtedness. It demands an unlimited volume of fiat currency, irredeemable, and therefore without any standard value in the markets of the world. Every consideration of public interest and public honor demands that this proposition should be rejected by the American people. This country cannot afford to give the sanction to wholesale spoliation. It must hold fast to its integrity. It must still encourage thrift in all proper ways. It must not only educate its children to honor and respect the flag, but it should inculcate fidelity to the obligations of personal and national honor as well. Both these great principles should hereafter be taught in the common schools of the land, and the lesson impressed upon those who are the voters of to-day and those who are to become the inheritors of sovereign power in this republic, that it is neither wise, patriotic nor safe to make political platforms the mediums of assault upon property, the peace of society and upon civilization itself.

Serious Peril.

But vastly more than the mere assertion of a purpose to reconstruct the national currency is suggested by the Chicago platform. It assumes, in fact, the form of a revolutionary propaganda. It embodies a menace of national disintegration and destruction. This spirit manifested itself in a deliberate proposition to repudiate the plighted public faith, to impair the sanctity of the obligation of private contracts, to cripple the credit of the nation by stripping the government of the power to borrow money as the urgent exigencies of the treasury may require, and, in a word, to overthrow all the foundations of financial and industrial stability. Nor is this all. Not content with a proposition to thus debauch the currency and to unsettle all conditions of trade and commerce, the party responsible for this platform denies the competency of the government to protect the lives and property of its citizens against internal disorder and violence. It assails the judicial muniments reared by the constitution for the defense of individual rights and the public welfare, and it even threatens to destroy the integrity and independence of the supreme court, which has been considered the last refuge of the citizen against every form of outrage and injustice. In the face of the serious peril which these propositions embody, it would seem that there could be but one sentiment among right-thinking citizens, as to the duty of the hour. All men, of whatever party, who believe in law, and have some regard for the sacredness of individual and institutional rights, must unite in defense of the endangered interests of the nation.

Tariff and Protection.

Our financial and business condition is at this moment one of almost unprecedented depression. Our great industrial system is seriously paralyzed. Production in many important branches of manufacture has altogether ceased. Capital is without remunerative employment. Labor is idle. The revenues of the government are insufficient to meet its ordinary and necessary expenses. These conditions are not the result of accident. They are the outcome of a mistaken economic policy deliberately enacted and applied. It would not be difficult and would not involve any violent disturbance of our existing commercial system to enact necessary tariff modifications along the lines of experience. In such a condition of affairs as this it is idle to argue against the necessity of some sort of a change in our fiscal laws. Our party holds that by a wise adjustment of the tariff, conceived in moderation and with a view to stability, we may secure all needed revenue, and it declares that in the event of its restoration to power it will seek to accomplish that result. It holds, too, that it is the duty of the government to protect and encourage in all practicable ways the development of domestic industries, the elevation of home labor, and the enlargement of the prosperity of the people. It does not favor any form of legislation which would lodge in the government the power to do what the people ought to do for themselves, but it believes that it is both wise and patriotic to discriminate in favor of our own material resources and the utilization, under the best attainable conditions, of our own capital and our own available skill and industry.

Appeals to Patriotism.

My sincere conviction is that my countrymen will prove wise enough to understand the issues that confront them, and patriotic enough to apply safe and sure remedies for the evils that oppress us. They will not, I am sure, accept again at their face value, the promises of a party which, under desperate and perverted leadership has so recently dishonored its solemn pledges, which has repudiated the principles and policies which have given it a historic past, and the success of which, as now constituted, would endanger at home private security and the public safety, and disastrously affect abroad both our credit and good name. And foremost among those who will decline to follow where the new democracy leads will be thousands of men, democrats aforetime and democrats to-day, who count country more than party, and are unwilling even by indirection to contribute to results so disastrous to our most sacred interests.

GARRET A. HOBART.

FEVER AT HAVANA.

No Abatment to the Pest and the Death Rate Is Very Large.

New York, Sept. 10.—Alexander Gollen, British consul general at Havana, arrived here last night on the Ward line steamship Vigilancia from that port. He is on a four months' leave of absence and will sail for England on Saturday. Regarding the present condition of affairs in the war ridden island Mr. Gollen did not care to speak in detail. He said, however, that the sanitary conditions now prevailing in Havana were far from good and that the death rate was very heavy. The number of persons now sick with fever, he said, would indicate that it would not soon decrease. Just before Mr. Gollen sailed from Havana the first ship load of Spanish soldiers that constitute the advance guard of the reinforcement that recently left Spain to crush the rebellion arrived. They came on the Montevideo and numbered 1,900 men. He declared that there were at present about 150,000 Spanish soldiers on the island. Most of these were doing police duty, which consists in guarding the towns held by the Spanish. Disease was prevalent among the troops to a terrible extent when he left Cuba, he said.

Great Ovation for Dr. Nansen.

Christiania, Norway, Sept. 10.—Dr. Nansen, the Arctic explorer, who recently returned from an expedition in search of the North Pole, arrived here yesterday afternoon on his vessel, the Fram, and was given a great national reception. He proceeded to the royal palace, where he was given a hearty welcome by King Oscar and the crown prince. In the evening a state banquet was given in his honor.

Sixteen Greek Deserters To Be Shot.

Athens, Sept. 10.—A number of officers in the Greek army who deserted from their commands and joined the insurgents in the island of Crete, recently returned to Athens and gave themselves up to the military authorities. Decrees have been signed condemning sixteen of them to death. The executions of the condemned men will take place at Nauplia.

Fair Ground Grands Stand Collapses.

Cherryfield, Me., Sept. 10.—A small grand stand collapsed at the fair yesterday afternoon when 5,000 people were on the grounds. One hundred people were precipitated in a mass, a dozen receiving broken bones and internal injuries. Capt. John Leighton of Millbridge, aged 80, died from fright.

A Warning to the Sultan.

London, Sept. 10.—Following is the text of the unanimous note from the various embassies at Constantinople, sent to the sultan on August 27: "We regret the events. They ought to cease immediately; otherwise they will bring prejudice upon Turkey and your dynasty."

W. Brockholst Cutting's Condition

Newport, R. I., Sept. 10.—W. Brockholst Cutting, the prominent clubman, who is lying at the point of death at the home of his mother, is reported to-day as about the same, if anything a little worse. The doctors remain at his bedside.

Chairman Hinkley To Retire.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., Sept. 10.—The article which appeared in a New York morning paper announcing the retirement of James W. Hinkley from the chairmanship of the democratic state committee was shown Mr. Hinkley and he acknowledged its correctness.

Baldwin Not Asked to Resign.

Washington, Sept. 10.—It is emphatically denied at the treasury department that a request has been made on Auditor Baldwin for his resignation because of his participation in the free silver agitation.

Nominated on the 1,000th Ballot.

Louisville, Sept. 10.—The fourth district free silver democratic congressional convention at Elizabethtown last evening nominated D. H. Smith, of La Rue county, for congress on the 1,000th ballot.

AN ALIEN IN BOHEMIA.

BY HELEN F. HUNTINGTON.

Madam's gloved finger tips touched my arm lingeringly.

"You are so dependable," she said, with a smile and a fleeting glance at a somber little figure at our right. "Won't you say something to little Mrs. Loring for me? She is quite impossible, of course; but her husband is the man most talked about just now. I had to invite her, you know."

Mrs. Loring was scanning the sea of eager, smiling faces around her with an anxious gaze that seemed to go beyond the present into the possible future. She smiled brightly when Madam introduced me, and extended an ill-gloved hand with a murmur of "Pleased to meet you," and after that lapsed into timid "yeas and nays," which left me no choice but talk. Yes, plainly, she was impossible to madam's coterie. She was diffident almost to awkwardness; she wore what tradespeople describe as "good clothes of the all-wool variety," made after painfully defective similitude of the prevailing fashion, which brought out all the imperfections of her thin little figure. There was no vulgar display, only general unfitness.

Mention of her husband brought a faint flush to her tired face.

"That is he," she said, nodding toward a tall, fair man with a frank, almost boyish face, fairly surrounded by a group of fashionable men and women.

"He is making an enviable reputation in literature," I remarked at random, feeling somehow that she had a very small part in his triumphs. "You must feel very proud of his success.

"Oh, it gives me such pleasure just to hear people talk of him!" she answered, brightening into a semblance of absolute beauty. "Sometimes people who don't know me point him out to me with praises and eager pride of mere acquaintance."

Soon the moving throng divided us. When next I saw her Senor Perada, of the foreign legation, was guiding her through the human maze, his handsome head bowed to catch her timid murmurs.

I did not see her again, but I met her husband frequently—always in the midst of a gay, brilliant throng of worshipers—and every time I saw him I seemed to see a little plain face with big, shining eyes, and hear a delighted exclamation of: "Oh, how it pleases me just to hear people talk of him!" Six months after that night at madam's the news of Mrs. Loring's sudden disappearance gave society a little tremor of surprise. It was rumored also that she had deliberately left her husband; and as he was a very popular and successful man, society sympathized deeply, and helped him to forget his sorrow. Meanwhile, Mrs. Loring's name was blotted out, and the world went its accustomed gait.

During the Lenten season this year society found time and inclination to distribute flowers in the hospitals; and as we had a great quantity of flowers of an ultra-fashionable wedding, I took the surplus to a hospital across the river, where there is less noise and show but just as much trouble as in New York. Gratitude and love, whose customs are unchanged since the foundation of the world, manifested themselves with pathetic tenderness among the sick and discouraged. I knew no one; but after an hour or so in the wards I felt the human bond that makes the whole world kin in a way that was good to remember long after.

The next day I received a little note written in the cramped, vertical hand of a painstaking schoolgirl, requesting me to call at the hospital on the following afternoon during visiting hours. It was signed in a bolder hand by a nurse of ward A.

"It was little Miss Ely who wrote you," the nurse explained, when I appeared. "She begged so hard to have you come once more. The poor little thing is so sweet and patient we hadn't the heart to refuse; she never has anyone to see her."

"What is her trouble?" I asked, trying vainly to recall Miss Ely.

"Consumption—in its last stages. She cannot possibly recover. It is only a question of days, perhaps hours."

A little figure propped against snowy pillows leaned forward expectantly as I entered. A big crimson rose nodded languorously at her breast, as it had so lately nodded at a bridal altar.

"I'm afraid madame does not remember me," she said, as she smiled and pressed my hand with feeble warmth. "Will you forgive me for troubling you again? I want so much to hear of a friend whom I think you know. Do you remember Mrs. Loring?"

I immediately recognized the little patient face, with its big, searching eyes and the swift, proud smile.

"I know I cannot live long," she began, as if apologizing for her very existence, "and it doesn't matter now. They do not know here who I am or any part of my life, and I did not mean to tell anyone; but I want so much to hear of my husband once more before I die. Won't you tell me of him? You cannot know how I have longed to hear of him. You are not angry that I ask you?"

"No, oh, no," I answered, and clasped the hand a little closer.

"Do you ever see him or speak to him?" she asked, eagerly, the hectic flush deepening in her wasted cheeks and her eyes shining like stars.

"Yes, I see him often. People call him a great genius, and he has everything to make him happy."

"Thank God! Oh, how glad I am—how glad!" Tears rose in her dark bright eyes and trickled down in big, pearly drops into the heart of the sumptuous rose. "If you knew how starved I am for the sight of his face and one word of love from his lips you would pity and forgive me."

"I am sorry from my heart," I answered, in absolute truth, that gave her courage to tell me her pitiful story.

"And you will let me talk to you of him, will you not? I have not spoken of him to a living soul since I left him that night now so long, long ago—only two years, and to me they seem a lifetime. And all that time I have been in this city, almost within a stone's throw of his great, happy world. How hard it has been God only knows."

"But, tell me, why did you leave him?"

"Oh, yes, I will tell you. It cannot matter, now that the end is so near. Ah! I must talk," she murmured, in answer to the nurse's look of mild reproof. "It will kill me to keep silence longer."

She closed her eyes for a few seconds, then began to talk in a clear undertone, too low to reach the ears of the idly curious.

"I knew the world would say hard things of me, but there was no other way, and for his sake nothing mattered. It seems a long, long while since our marriage. I was a poor, simple country girl. I lived with my half-sister way up in the Vermont hills, never dreaming of the great busy world beyond till Herbert came there to write one summer, and when I met him I realized what a lonely life mine had been, and how insufferably dull it would henceforth be without him. He was very young, full of the glorious enthusiasm of ambitious youth; he used to tell me of his successes and all his golden dreams of the future, and I knew he would some time be one of the great ones of earth. He used to call me 'innocently pretty'—yes, that was it—'so innocently pretty, free from the poor affectations of society girls,' and liked to have me near him while he wrote, because my simple presence helped him to realize his highest ideals.

"Then my sister died suddenly, and after the first shock of grief, when he realize that I was alone in the world, he told he loved me—that I was the one girl in all the world to him, the woman to fill his life completely. His work would take him among all classes of people; he would be of the gay, fickle world which pleases for a time, but cannot satisfy, and he would always return with joy to the home-nest, where I was to be queen forever. What a dream of happiness to me! How could I know that it was but a dream!

"The confusion and noise of the city disturbed me at first, but I had Herbert, and nothing mattered when he was near. We had long, happy evenings together in which to talk of and plan for the promising future. Then he grew very busy and began to go out a great deal, and, to satisfy the demands of society, had people at our home often, —people whom I did not understand—'Bohemians,' he called them, and explained that they were necessary to his success. So the quiet evenings were broken—it was not Herbert's fault, you know. When the world makes a hero of a man he must smile back. I was not adaptable. I tried earnestly to interest myself in the strange ways of his friends and understand the things they talked about, but they showed me how hopeless it was. Perhaps they did not mean to discourage me, but I could not help but feel their silent scorn. Herbert felt it sorely and tried to help me, but it was of no use, it was not in me to learn the ways of Bohemians. He was disappointed; it was not his fault—you understand that, don't you?" she asked appealingly.

I nodded, and pressed her hand in silent sympathy, and after a little pause she went on in her low, even voice:

"One night, when I was very tired and troubled, I went into the little alcove off the library, where it was dark and quiet, and lay down to think it all over. You see, I thought there must be some way out of the difficulty, for I loved him so, and wished more than anything in the world to help him. Presently I heard Herbert's study door open, and after a pause some one came into the library, closing the door after them. Through a narrow rift between the portieres I saw the face of one of my husband's friends—a handsome young fellow called familiarly 'the Bohemian prince,' because he was so recklessly prodigal and very popular. He and Herbert talked a great deal of people whom I did not know, and I felt very uncomfortable in hearing what did not concern me; but I was afraid my husband would be annoyed if I made my presence known, so I lay quite still and tried not to listen. At first Herbert was in a bad humor, which the other man noticed, and tried to dissipate jestingly; but failing, said presently: 'Loring, old fellow, I know your trouble, just as the whole world will soon know it; and upon my word I am sorry, but it won't mend matters to sulk. Believe me, there is only one way out of it.' He went on to say that but for me Herbert would be at the top of the ladder of fame, and I knew it was true; but every word was like a sword thrust to me.

"'Don't take it so savagely, old man,' he said, lifting his hand as if to ward off Herbert's protests. 'You will not be so foolish as to deny it. No one blames her; it simply is not in her to be otherwise than a good, humdrum little housewife, all heart and simplicity—the sort to make an ideal wife for a poor pious clerk, but for you she's simply impossible.' 'Don't,' Herbert said once; but the other man paid no heed. He went on to show him what a drag I would be to him his whole life; how the world would laugh at and wound his poor, stupid little wife; and finally Herbert admitted the truth of his reasoning.

"That night I left his home forever. I had no one in the world to go to, but I knew there were many poor sorrowful lives that I could brighten, even though my own life was spoiled. Since then I have done what I could for others, always thinking of him I love. Once I waited for hours to see him pass from a public building and I last saw him arm in arm with the man who taught me my hard duty. I read in the paper yesterday that he will go away to-morrow—to Europe, for a long while, perhaps—and when he returns even my grave will be forgotten; but some time in the future, when you see him, will you tell is another one of the things that Pearline (use without soap) does best. With that, the glass is never cloudy—is always clear and bright. Washing it is less trouble, of course—but that is the case with everything that is washed with Pearline.

And about the sashes and the frames; remember that Pearline, when it takes the dirt off, leaves the paint on. Haven't you noticed that certain imitations are not so particular about this? 457

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS

Edited by ALBERT SHAW.

THE REVIEW OF REVIEWS, as its name implies, gives in readable form the best that appears in the other great magazines all over the world, generally on the same date that they are published. With the recent extraordinary increase of worthy periodicals, these careful reviews, summaries, and quotations, giving the gist of periodical literature, are alone worth the subscription price.

FIVE MONTHS FOR $1.00.

ANNUAL SUBSCRIPTION $2.50.

Aside from these departments, the editorial and contributed features of the REVIEW OF REVIEWS are themselves equal in extent to a magazine. The Editor's "Progress of the World" is an invaluable chronicle of the happenings of the thirty days just past, with pictures on every page of the men and women who have made the history of the month.

THREE RECENT SAMPLES 25 cents.

The Literary World says: "We are deeply impressed from month to month with the value of the 'REVIEW OF REVIEWS,' which is a sort of Eiffel Tower for the survey of the whole field of periodical literature. And yet it has a mind and voice of its own, and speaks out with decision and sense on all public topics of the hour. It is a singular combination of the monthly magazine and the daily newspaper. It is daily in its freshness; it is monthly in its method. It is the world under a field glass."

Gladness Comes

With a better understanding of the true nature of the many physical ills which vanish before proper efforts—gentle efforts—pleasant efforts—rightly directed. There is comfort in the knowledge, that so many former sufferers are not thus relieved, but cured, and simply by the acceptance of a remedy of the pleasant family laxative, Syrup of Figs, promptly recommended. It is the only remedy with millions of friends, and everywhere esteemed so highly by all who value good health. Its beneficial effects are due to the fact, that it is the one remedy which promotes internal cleanliness without debilitating the organs on which it acts. It is therefore all important, in order to get its beneficial effects, to note when you purchase, that you have the genuine article, which is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only and sold by all reputable druggists.

If in the enjoyment of good health, and the system is regular, laxatives or other remedies are then not needed. If afflicted with any actual disease, one may be commended to the most skillful physicians, but if in need of a laxative, one should have the best, and with the well-informed everywhere, Syrup of Figs stands highest and is most largely used and gives most general satisfaction.

The Possibilities of Middletown Whiskey

From the Conglomerate.

A Middletown daily has the following item: "A hawk was seen, yesterday, sailing along in front of a trolley car, with a large snake in its beak." We believe the foregoing story. Several years ago we took a drink of Mindletown whiskey, and the things we saw the next day would incline us to believe any kind of a snake and hawk story.

An Engineer's Bloody Record.

English Privy Council.

The British privy council, of which the cabinet is merely a committee unknown to the law, has entirely ceased to hold meetings for purposes of deliberation and has become a body of a merely ceremonial nature. So completely, however, have the functions of the two bodies been dissociated that whereas the privy council cannot meet except under the presidency of the sovereign the sovereign cannot constitutionally preside at a meeting of the cabinet.—Chicago Chronicle.

The Man for the Place.

A Valuable Prescription.

Editor Morriston, of Worthington, Ind., "Sun," writes: "You have a valuable prescription in Electric Bitters, and I can cheerfully recommend it for Constipation and Sick Headache, and as a general system tonic it has no equal." Mrs Annie Stehle, 2625 Cottage Grove Ave., Chicago, was all run down, could not eat nor digest food, had a backache which never left her and felt tired and weary, but six bottles of Electric Bitters restored her health and renewed her strength. Prices 50 cents and $1.00. Get a Bottle at McMonagle & Rogers' Drug Store.

It doesn't matter much whether sick headache, biliousness, indigestion and constipation are caused by neglect or by unavoidable circumstances, DeWitt's Little Early Risers will cure them all. W. D. Olney.

Don't trifle away time when you have cholera morbus or diarrhoea. Fight them in the beginning with DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. You don't have to wait for results, they are instantaneous and it leaves the bowels in healthy condition. W. D. Olney.

INSULT THEIR GUEST

Chinese Attacked in the Ottawa House of Commons.

LI HUNG STILL IN THE COUNTRY

Efforts To Have the Tax on Mongols Increased to $500—Negotiations To Be Opened with the United States on the Subject.

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—The question of Chinese immigration was brought up in the house of commons last night when Rev. Mr. Maxwell of Vancouver, B. C., moved for copies of the memoranda and other correspondence in the hands of the government on the question. The Chinese, he said, were driving the white people out of the province and making the labor market scarce for those who remained. He asked that the tax on each Chinaman entering the country be increased from $50 to $500; the tax of $50 was not sufficient to prevent them from entering the country in large numbers. Sir Henry Joly, minister of inland revenue, who has just returned to Ottawa after accompanying Li Hung Chang as far as North Bay, regretted that an attack had been made on the Chinese race and he would upon another occasion take the opportunity of defending them from the aspersions placed on their character. It was to be regretted that Li Hung Chang would be able to read in the papers this attack while on his way to the Pacific coast and while still a guest of the Dominion government. He merely said this much so it would go along with the attack which had been made on Li Hung Chang's countrymen. Mr. Laurier stated that the government would negotiate with the United States government during the interval between this and next session of parliament on the subject, but if the negotiations failed, then the Dominion government would introduce legislation next session.

MEXICO'S EXECUTIVE MANSION.

A Republican Ruler Who Dwells in a Kingly Palace.

When the meal has finally closed, the ladies retire to the salon de fumar to enjoy a tiny cigarette or two, if so given, while the gentlemen linger over their cigarros. After dinner the visitors will be escorted, if they request it, through the high walls of the Castle, and the host and hostess will soon prove the most interesting of guides, as the way leads through salon after salon and great suites of apartments. Chapultepec is equipped in a truly palatial manner, but with a quiet elegance, and with none of the uncultured ostentation too often in evidence in the surroundings of foreign aristocracy.

The walls of the rooms of state in Chapultepec are hung in woven silk, bearing the coat of arms of the republic of Mexico, heavily and inworked with the same material, and all the other tapestries are of the finest quality, the same costly rule applying to the general furnishings of both residences of the president. At Chapultepec many of the pieces of furniture in use have come down from more than three centuries ago, while each succeeding administration during that time has added some touch or other to the palace home of the Mexican ruler. There are priceless paintings from the royal galleries of Spain and Europe; furniture with its pearl mosaics and gold and copper inlaying, costing fabulous sums; rugs from the orient, brought over in the early days of regal splendor, and many tons of the finest of Italian and native sculpture in statuary and massive urns of finely grained marble and alabaster. Yet the general arrangement of it all is most skillful, and the furnishings exceedingly well distributed.—Edward Gaston Page, in Ladies' Home Companion.

The Artful Chinee.

In connection with the North China mission at Pekin, Dr. Alice K. Marston undertakes to attend any of her sex who need her services. Therefore, some artful people have been to the dispensary to ask Dr. Alice to come and see their mother, and on arriving at the house the mother has been found to be a male! But the dispensary people have waked up to the ways of the artful Chinee, so in answer to a request for Dr. Alice to attend some mother comes the question: "Is your mother a man or a woman?"—London Household Words.

A Defect in Manners.

THURSDAY, SEPT. 10, 1896.

For President,
WILLIAM JENNINGS BRYAN,
of Nebraska.

For Vice-President,
ARTHUR SEWALL,
of Maine.

Senator Hill was, yesterday, elected a delegate to the Democratic State Convention from the Second Assembly District and instructed to vote for the endorsement of the Chicago ticket and platform. This brings the Senator to the "turning of the ways." He must now make it known whether he has decided to go with his party or into the camp of the enemy.

The Republicans of Delaware county have nominated Charles S. Woodruff for County Treasurer, Geo. B. Smith for Superintendent of the Poor, D. H. Mackey for Member of Assembly and Dr. J. N. Wright for Coroner. There were sharp contests over the nominations for Superintendent and Member of Assembly and the convention was in session for two days.

Burke Cochran has declined a Republican nomination for Congress in one of the New York districts. It is one thing to be the paid attorney for the Hannaites and quite another thing to take a nomination and to give the people an opportunity to express their opinion of a renegade at the ballot box. Mr. Cochran has an eye to business only in this campaign.

Black, the Republican candidate for Governor, who went on record as believing that "any man who has voted the Democratic ticket for ten years is beyond prayers," will receive no Democratic support and will lose the votes of many Republicans, who believe that a bigoted partisan and a servile tool of Tom Platt is not a safe man to place in executive office. If a strong nomination is made at Buffalo it will be an easy thing to beat Black.

The lower McNeil farm in the town of Carlisle was sold, last week, for $1,425. In 1868 it was sold for $4,200, and in 1878 for $3,500. Possibly in 1898 they can't give it away.—Norwich Telegraph.

And yet the Telegraph is doing all in its power to perpetuate conditions that make such a frightful wiping out of values possible. The same shrinkage in the value of land has taken place in every county in this and every other State, and is a direct result of the steady appreciation of the gold dollar. Farms sell for only a fraction of their former value because prices of farm products have so fallen that with the hardest work and the most pinching economy farmers do well if they do not find themselves deeper and deeper in debt with each succeeding year. The only hope of relief is offered by the Democratic party through the free coinage of silver, which will stop the steady appreciation of gold and give the farmers of the country a living chance.

There is nothing uncertain or evasive in Mr. Bryan's letter of acceptance. He sets aside the tariff issue as of minor importance until the currency question is settled, and in this he is right, for if experience has demonstrated anything it is that relief from the ills that oppress this country is not to be found in tariff tinkering. Mr. Bryan accepts the Chicago platform in its entirety, and in the discussion of its several planks declares so emphatically for popular rights that in this plain he does not shrink from the manifest challenge of the plutocrats and monopolists, who, no matter what their former political affiliations, are now arrayed solidly against him. Mr. Bryan is glad to avow himself the people's candidate. He stands as the champion of popular rights. His election will mean that the farmers, the workingmen, the toilers in every department of human activity, the plain people of the country, are able to right their wrongs through the ballot box and free themselves from conditions that oppress them and grind them down. His defeat will mean that organized wealth rules this country, that money is omnipotent, that the people are fools and that [illegible] the worst of slaves.

Garret A. Hobart's letter accepting the Republican nomination for Vice President is mum. "Under" against "over" as was McKinley's. Mr. Hobart outdoes the Lamentations of Jeremiah when he depicts the evils that he says will follow in the wake of free coinage and is particularly concerned at its effect on workingmen and the holders of small investments. Mr. Hobart has for years been the agent and the beneficiary of trusts, combines and monopolies that have oppressed the people and has never heretofore shown any concern for their welfare, but this year he and all his ilk would have us believe that they are laying awake nights, worrying lest the plain people bring ruin on themselves by voting for the candidate who represents their interests. Mr. Hobart's conversion is too sudden and his motives too apparent to deceive any one.

Candidate Hobart said never a word in his letter of acceptance about the coal trust with which he is connected and its increase in coal prices since Mr. Hobart's nomination. A few words on this subject would have read with greater eagerness by the people who are being oppressed by the trust than the long letter Mr. Hobart gave them.

PENNSYLVANIA'S CONVENTION.

Undoing the Work of Gold Bugs and Denouncing the Bolters.

BY UNITED PRESS.

HARRISBURG, Sept. 10—The Democratic State Convention was called to order in the opera house by State Chairman Garman at 12:35. The lower floor was well filled. Capt. John Keenan, of Greensburgh, was chosen temporary chairman and was loudly applauded. He delivered an address in which he upheld the reconvening of the convention and declared there should be no flinching in supporting the Chicago nominees, and denounced the gold Democratic movement as a step in favor of McKinley.

His references to the free and unlimited coinage of silver were cheered. He declared we have not unjustly criticised the Supreme Court: it has criticised itself. We are not creatures of those judges and courts: we made them and they are our servants. He argued that the income tax was a safe thing and should not have been declared unconstitutional. He commended fusion with the Populists. He predicted fusion would result in at least something more than a hopeless fight in Pennsylvania.

J. W. Grier protested against Guy W. Ferguson being allowed to sit as a substitute for William Galvin. He declared Ferguson is an employe of the governor and the latter is not to be accorded any privileges in the convention. The matter was referred to the Committee on Credentials.

The convention took a recess until 3 o'clock.

SENATOR HILL OBJECTS TO BEING INSTRUCTED.

BY UNITED PRESS.

ALBANY, Sept. 10.—Senator Hill telegraphs from Long Beach, L. I., that his election as a delegate to Buffalo from the third district of Albany under instructions to vote to endorse the Chicago platform and ticket was taken in opposition to his wishes and judgment and declining to accept an election upon the conditions imposed which would restrict his freedom at Buffalo to act as he considered best for the interest of the party.

BANK OF ENGLAND INCREASES DISCOUNT.

BY UNITED PRESS.

LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Bank of England has advanced the rate of discount from 2 to 2½ per cent., the first time the rate has been increased since Feb. 22d, 1894. This action was unexpected.

It is regarded as a precautionary measure to check the drain of gold to the United States and continent. The increase caused a decline of consols and home and American railroad stocks.

A SOUTHERN SENATOR ON "THE ERA OF PEACE AND GOOD WILL."

BY UNITED PRESS.

CLEVELAND, Sept. 10.—At the decoration, yesterday, of the statue of Commodore Perry in connection with the celebration of the anniversary of the victory on Lake Erie, ex-Senator Butler, of South Carolina, made an address on the subject "The Era of Peace and Good Will" between the North and South.

REPUBLICAN DEMONSTRATIONS IN SPAIN.

BY UNITED PRESS.

MADRID, Spain, Sept. 10.—Thirty Republicans armed with rifles made a demonstration at Pdervia, Province of Valencia, yesterday, but were quickly suppressed by troops. The rioters fled. Republican agitations also occurred in other towns.

DESTITUDE IN ALASKA.

BY UNITED PRESS.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 10.—Information has reached the treasury that one thousand prospectors now in the mining region in Alaska are destitude and if not brought this fall to the States by war vessels will run the risk of starving through the winter.

HELD UP A FARO GAME.

BY UNITED PRESS.

POCATELLO, Idaho, Sept. 10—Two robbers held up a faro game in a saloon, yesterday morning, securing $800 and backed out of the room.

MORE GOLD COMING.

BY UNITED PRESS.

HAMBURG, Sept. 10—Steamer Columbia hence to-day for New York, has a million in gold.

STILL ANOTHER BURGLARY.

The Shoe Store of J. H. Rosenkranse Entered by Thieves and a Number of Pairs of Shoes Stolen.

The shoe store of James H. Rosenkranse, 108 North street, was entered last night, by thieves and a number of pairs of shoes were stolen.

Entrance was gained through the rear window of the store. An iron bar had been pried off and a pane of glass broken, allowing the thieves to unlock the latch and raise the window.

Foot prints in the soft earth under the window indicate that more than one person was engaged in the job. A number of shoes had been tried on, most of which were sizes six and seven. The thieves had pulled the stock all about in general disorder and Mr. Rosenkranse is unable state exactly how many pairs are missing. There is no clue to the thieves.

The robbery was committed while Perry and Howell were safe behind the bars and therefore there is still work for the police to do. There is a gang of clever petty thieves at work and a general round-up of suspected parties should be made.

Special Train on the Erie to the County Fair at Newburgh.

On account of the Orange County Fair, the Erie Railroad will run a special train on Wednesday and Thursday, Sept 16th and 17th, the second and third days of the fair, from Middletown to Newburgh The train will leave Middletown at 8:10 a. m. stopping at all intermediate stations and returning, will leave Newburgh at 5 o'clock. Tickets will be sold at the rate of one fare for the round trip.

Business Change in Unionville.

Hanford Brothers, of Unionville, have sold out their undertaking business to Matthews & Edsall. They were in business thirty-two years, and buried during that time 1,297 people, an average of forty per year. Their receipts from funerals footed up a total of $55,000.

A REPOCRAT BUTTON.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.

"Again I am going to make a hit," said the inventor, and when the incredulous friend made the usual doubting utterance the inventor went on:

"It's a button for this new gold Democratic party. The design will be a small gold-plated bolt.—off its nut."

The friend admitted that it was a good thing, but thought there would not be enough purchasers to make much of a success.

BURGLARS BEHIND BARS.

Brad Perry and "Hammy" Howell Arrested for Breaking Into the Carpet Bag Factory.—Clever Detective Work—Spotted While Selling Their Plunder—Acknowledge Their Guilt—Suspected of Other Crimes.

Officer Theodore Wood, who was suspended for ten days for entering a restaurant to get a cup of coffee and a sandwich while on duty a short time ago, has redeemed himself by a very clever bit of detective work, which resulted in the arrest and commitment of Brad Perry and Hamilton (better known as "Hammy") Howell to Goshen jail to await the action of the Grand Jury upon a charge of burglary in the third degree. Both men pleaded guilty and were held in default of $600 bail.

About 3 o'clock, Wednesday morning, Officer Wood, while on his rounds, stopped at the Wickham avenue depot. While standing in the shadow of the door of the trainmen's room he heard voices in the direction of the rear of the restaurant and in a moment Brad Perry emerged from the darkness with a satchel in his hand. Officer Wood remained in hiding and heard Brad endeavor to sell the satchel to Night Yardmaster Michael Doran for fifty cents.

Mr. Doran refused to purchase the satchel and Brad inquired the whereabouts of the switch gang. He was informed that they were in the yard, near Cottage street, and Brad and Howell, who had joined him, started in that direction followed by the officer.

The men went directly to the engine and "Woodie" dodged around the cars to the opposite side where he was able to hear all that occurred.

Engineer Theo. Abell questioned the men as to where they got the satchel and ask'd if they had stolen it. Howell told a plausible tale of ownership and lack of funds to buy a "half pint," and Abell finally bought the satchel for fifty cents.

Wood followed the men to their homes and then returned and took the engineer's name and a description of the satchel.

The robbery at the carpet bag factory had not been discovered at that time, and it was not until officers Wood and Sharpe appeared at police headquarters, yesterday afternoon, that they learned of the burglary, which occurred early Wednesday morning.

The officers immediately procured the satchel, and it was identified by Matthews & Co. They then went down to Fulton street and "pinched," their men.

After a night in the lockup, the men concluded to make a clean breast of it and acknowledged the crime. They also informed the officers that they had sold a satchel to Layard Abers, a Fulton street hotel keeper, for fifty cents, and that four pairs of nippers and a hammer which they had stolen were concealed in a barn in the rear of J. & P. Cummings' store on Fulton street. Officer Faulkner recovered these articles this morning.

The robbery was in all probability concocted by Howell, who formerly worked in the carpet bag factory.

"Brad" Perry has an unenviable police court record, having been arrested a number of times for drunkenness, disorderly conduct, assaults and nearly all the minor crimes in the code. He escaped from an officer once while on his way to the Albany penitentiary to serve a year for an assault. He remained away from the city several years and finally upon his promise to do better was allowed to return.

Howell claims that this is the first time he was ever arrested for any cause. He has given the police no little trouble, however, and they have had an eye on him for some time.

It is thought that the men were connected with several recent burglaries, but although a close watch had been kept upon their movements, it was impossible to obtain any direct evidence against them.

Appointed Aid-de-Camp to Commander Graham.

D. H. Keeler, Jr., Past Commander and present Quartermaster of Gen. Lyon Post, No. 266, Dep't. of N. Y., G. A. R., has been appointed aid-de-camp on the staff of Department Commander J. S. Graham, of this State.

Mr. Keeler is a zealous Grand Army man, and as an officer of Gen. Lyon Post he has shown himself careful, painstaking and honest in all his work. This honor is well deserved.

Grove Meeting Next Sunday.

The grove meeting at Webb's Park that was postponed on account of the weather, last Sunday, will take place next Sunday, Sept. 13th, under the auspices of Bethel A. M. E. Church. The choir will be under the direction of T. J. Warner, with Mrs. A. Warner, organist. Services at 11 a. m., 3 p. m., and also at 7 p. m. Song and praise service during the day. 3td

Found a Nickel—Lost a Gold Watch.

Craig, the shoemaker, jumped from his wheel, on Wickham avenue, near John street, this morning, to pick up a nickel. Before remounting he looked at his watch and has not seen it since. He thinks instead of putting it in his fob pocket, he put it inside his trousers and it slipped out.

The watch had a solid gold case and a nickel ring.

Ladies to Have a Clam Bake.

OBITUARY.

Mrs. Ruth H. Simpson.

Mrs. Ruth Hammond, wife of Francis H. Simpson, died at her late residence, 20 Fowler street, Port Jervis, on Tuesday afternoon at 5.30 o'clock.

The surviving relatives are her husband and sons and daughters as follows: Mrs. Josephine McCamly, Mrs. Frances Hounsell, wife of Conductor J. B. Hounsell, of Suffern; Wm. H., of Ridgewood, N. J.; Edgar D., of Omaha, Neb.; George and Grace at home.

One sister, Mrs. Rebecca F. Gillespie, of Port Jervis, and three brothers, Horace, William and Hosea Hammond also survive.

Mrs. Simpson was born Oct. 18th, 1821, and was married Sept. 25, 1850. She came to Port Jervis in 1848 with her parents, the late Major Hosea and Huldah Hammond, from her native town, Franklin Furnace, N. J.

The funeral will take place from her late residence at 3:30 o'clock, Friday afternoon.

PREPARING FOR THE PARADE.

Engineers and Foremen Arrange Details—Positions to Be Given Out to Town Fire Companies in the Parade

The Board of Engineers and Foremen of the several companies of the Middletown Fire Department, met last evening, and discussed matters appertaining to the forthcoming annual parade.

Assistant Chiefs Higham, Schmitt and C. C. Bogart of Excelsiors were appointed a committee to purchase fire works for the night parade, and the foremen of each company was requested to furnish lists of the members of each company from whom subscriptions will be solicited to defray the expenses of the evening parade.

Three members of each company will be selected by their foremen to distribute the fire works on the line of march.

Several companies from out of town places, have requested positions in line and it was voted to grant their requests.

A JUST REBUKE.

Administered to a Man Who Introduced Politics at a Veterans' Reunion.

The Newburgh Register very justly and severely criticises H. R. Mayette, of Brooklyn, Secretary of the 124th Regiment Association, for making a partisan speech at the Orange county veterans' reunion, on Monday, at Newburgh, and refers to other veterans who do not entertain the same political opinions as Mr. Mayette who were insulted by the ridicule of the principles they espouse and the charge made by him that such as they are un-American and unpatriotic.

This is the second occasion in this campaign when politics have been introduced at veterans' reunions in this county, and the Register's criticism is none too severe. Men who will introduce politics on such occasions are lacking in good taste if nothing more.

SOME INDIAN RELICS.

A Warrior's Skeleton Unearthed at Black Rock—Other Relics.

Hiram Mandeville exhumed a skeleton of an Indian while digging in the vicinity of the old Indian burying ground near Black Rock, in the town of Deerpark, Tuesday. A number of beads and other relics were found near the skeleton.

Charles Edwards while plowing in a field on the Van Tuyle farm, on the Delaware, turned up a stone tomahawk. It was a perfect specimen, six inches long and three inches wide and with a very sharp edge. It was found within a rod of the spot where Tom Quick's cabin stood.

Crawford's Democratic Delegates.

At the recent primary of the Democrats of the town of Crawford the following delegates were chosen to the different conventions:

County—E. S. Puff, Walter Doyle, Daniel Taylor.
Assembly—J. H. Wallace, Newton Higby, Louis B. Roberson.
Congressional—T. M. Roberson.

STATE BOARD OF EQUALIZATION.

Orange County's Valuation of Real Property Increased Over $2,000,000

The State Board of Equalization, today, adopted the equalization table. It shows the following figures:

Total assessed value of real estate for 1895, $3,908,853,377; total assessed value of personal property 1895, $541,621,122; amount of assessed valued real estate taken from some counties and added to others by the equalization table of 1896, $145,339,891; equalized value of real estate 1896, $3,908,853,377; total equalized value of real and personal property in the State 1896, $4,368,712,903.

Orange county's real valuation is placed at $35,878,626, an increase over last year of $2,114,316. The valuation of personal property is the same as last year, $4,049,107.

"Our American Cousin."

"Our American Cousin," a play in which the elder Southern achieved great success, was produced by a company of actors of very limited ability, at the Casino, last evening. The audience failed to respond to the amateurish efforts of the players and a very dull performance was the result. A number of irrelevant specialties were introduced, but even these failed to arouse any enthusiasm. From a spectator's point of view it was a dismal failure.

Turf and Horse Notes.

—Page, the sensational Polonius colt, was an easy winner at Waverly, yesterday, in the 2:50 stake, in three heats. Time 2:24¼, 2:22 and 2:23. Rocket in the 2:22 trotting and Red Lake in the 2:35 pacing won handily. All these horses appeared as winners in the Orange County Circuit.

Ginseng Hunters in Delaware County.

Ginseng hunters in Delaware county have been making good wages, digging for this root which sells at from $3.50 to $4 per pound. The season for digging began several weeks ago and will continue until late in the fall.

LOOKING IT OVER.

He sees every thing. It looks well and the prospect pleases him. That's natural enough as nothing can be pleasanter to contemplate than a horse that looks just the thing for a horse. We have plenty of horses that are just the thing for horses on our list of properties for sale in Middletown and vicinity. It would make any man's face broader out like a full moon to inspect some of them. Looking over such property can have but one result, it means a purchase every time. Our reason tells the price and easy terms of payment settle the point. Come and see how much we can do for a little.

AN ALIEN IN BOHEMIA.

him that I thought of him and loved him to the last?"

When I rose to go she was crying softly, holding the rose to her flushed face, her tears falling into its fragrant heart; but excitement or fatigue brought on a violent spasm of coughing that ended in a hemorrhage, and left her whiter than her snowy gown. The nurse promised to inform me of her condition on the following day.

That night a certain faction of bohemia gave a brilliant farewell reception to Herbert Loring, which was crowded beyond belief by successful people of all artistic professions. I caught a glimpse of Mr. Loring beside a beautiful woman of Thespian fame and fair reputation; but the surging crowds surrounded him completely, and immediately I realized the futility of my plans. I learned, however, that he was to sail on the Etruria the morning following at 11 o'clock, and decided to act accordingly.

The next day was dark and chill, full of tempestuous winds and raw mist. I drove early to the pier to wait his coming; but, early as it was, others were there before me—leave-takers also, of the humble walks of life, to whom the restless ocean meant perhaps eternal separation. How strange the irony of fate! Perhaps I was risking much censure by my course, but the memory of the pale, patient little woman who worshiped the great man upheld my faith in human kind. I had long to wait among the lumbering freight teams and unlovely surroundings of the pier, but one by one other carriages arrived and people alighted and gathered into little laughing groups, and at length a murmur of excited comment proclaimed the hero's approach. I saw my groom press gently through the circle of eager friends to give him my hastily-scribbled note; saw the quick upward toss of his head as he read it; then he strode rapidly forward, his handsome face full of ill-concealed trouble.

"Are you sure there is no mistake?" he asked, in a strange, hard voice.

"Yes, unfortunately," I replied.

"My friends," he said, turning to the mystified company, "a very unexpected happening will prevent my departure temporarily. I hope soon to be able to explain matters to you, also to thank you for your kindness. Haggart, see that my traps are detained."

He did not speak again until we stopped before the hospital gates. "Will you prepare her for my coming?" he said, humbly.

She was lying with closed eyes when I entered, so still and white! The nurse beckoned to him, and he went softly to her side. "She is better, perhaps," he whispered, with quivering lips; but at that instant she opened her eyes and looked into his face.

"Herbert!" she cried, feebly, trying to reach out her arms to him. "Herbert, am I dreaming? O God! how shall I bear so much happiness?"

Perhaps God saw that she could not bear it, for He laid His loving hand on her heart, and stopped its faithful beating forever; but her last look was on the face she loved, and the last spark of life spent itself in a feeble pressure of his hand.—Peterson's Magazine.

AN AUDIENCE IN ISPAHAN.

Quiet, Self-Possessed and Given Over to Enjoyment.

A Persian audience, quiet, self-possessed and, in a word, the very reverse of the ugly crowds which pester and throng the entrance to gallery or pit in our own theaters, smoke their kalyans or hubbl-bubbles, while others take refreshment—not in the form of bottled stout, lemonade or ginger beer—but of the delicious baklawa, a dish which certainly should have been mentioned in the description of the golden palace of good Haroun-al-Rashid, a dish of dainty pastry, sweetened with syrup of honey and cut out in rhomboidal pieces; or of nukhud, savory peas soaked and fried; or, again, of melon seeds, treated in the same manner as the confectionery of Badreddin Hasan, in our common versions of the "Arabian Nights" interpreted "cream tarts"—into which the cook is accused, with an absurdity not in the Arabic, of having introduced pepper. Millet seeds form also a favorite dish of the women, a dish supposed to induce weeping in those rare cases in which the tragedy fails to excite tears, or as the Persian poet puts it, "pearls on polished ivory," and mastic is sometimes chewed by girls to whiten, as they believe, their teeth. It has, at least, the effect of tempering the volubility of their tongues.

Sukka or water cherries flit to and fro, boys richly clothed, with their eyelashes and eyebrows painted a deep blue, in sign of mourning, their hair elegantly curled and their heads covered with shahkulahs or nightcaps often embroidered with precious stones. Here and there, too, are to be seen the sellers of muhr, a cushion of perfumed holly clay, carved into various pretty shapes and intended, in the prostrations of the pious, to be applied to their brows. Coffee is handed round frequently at the expense of the chief of the pedal or parish. Sometimes a deyk suddenly starts and runs round on the saku, where he frantically bounces, faint with excitement, for forms like a member of the Salvation Army with religious fervor exhorts, though rarely, a mulla [illegible] to the idle crowd.—Fortnightly Review.

Peculiarity of Italians.

It takes great Dr accomplish what it does at Padua. When Prince Philibert of Orange's grave was found to be empty at Padua recently they began to hunt for him, and have now presented to the Dutch authorities a small casket containing the prince's ashes. It seems that his body was cremated in 1530, after the siege of Florence.—Chicago Tribune.

MRS. ANNA ULRICH, of Elm Creek, Buffalo Co., Neb., writes: "I enjoy good health thanks to Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and 'Golden Medical Discovery.' I was under doctors' care for two years with womb disease, and gradually wasting in strength all the time. I was so weak that I could sit up in bed only a few moments for two years. I commenced taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and his 'Golden Medical Discovery' and by the time I had taken one-half dozen bottles I was up and going wherever I pleased, and have had good health and been very strong ever since—that was two years and a half ago."

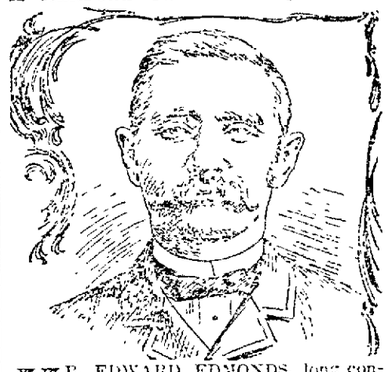
A Railroad Official's Experience.



MR. EDWARD EDMONDS, long connected with railroad construction in Nebraska, writes: "My heart troubled and pained me for 19 years. Shortness of breath was the constant and most common symptom. Intense excruciating pain, generally followed any severe exertion. Faintness, hunger, without any appetite; flutterings that made me clutch my breast, and palpitation that often staggered me as if I would fall, were frequent attacks. Again, everything would turn black if I arose from a stooping posture quickly. Sleepless nights, with their prostrating unrest were numerous and I could get no rest day or night. I consulted leading physicians and tried advertised remedies. They gave me no relief. One of Dr. Miles' circulars described my case so exactly that I took Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure and I am now a well man. I hope every one troubled with heart disease will try Dr. Miles' remedies. If they will write me personally, I will gladly give them full details of my experience." EDW. EDMONDS.

W. H. FOSTER,

No. 30 East Main St., Middletown

OLNEY AND SALISBURY.

Both Are Working Toward International Arbitration.

Although at Present They Are Widely at Variance Upon the Forms of the Plan, Their Negotiations Will Terminate in Success.

The published correspondence between the United States and the British governments regarding arbitration shows what progress has been made and what are the obstacles in the way of satisfactory results.

The correspondence, says the Youth's Companion, relates both to the Venezuela boundary, and to arrangements for a treaty of general arbitration. In both instances the two governments differ as to what shall be included in plans of arbitration.

As to Venezuela, Lord Salisbury insists that occupied territory, by which he means territory that was occupied in good faith by British subjects January 1, 1887, shall not be subject to the decision of a tribunal arbitration.

The British proposal is that there shall be a commission of four — two British subjects and two citizens of the United States—which shall investigate and report upon all questions of fact concerning the rights of Spain and of the Netherlands, respectively, at the time that Great Britain acquired British Guiana. If the governments of Great Britain and Venezuela, on the basis of this report, are not able to agree upon a boundary line, each of them is to nominate an arbitrator and those two a third, and the three are to constitute a tribunal of arbitration. The boundary line drawn by this tribunal is to be binding upon both countries, with the important proviso already mentioned, that it shall not give to Venezuela any part of the territory which has been settled by British subjects.

Secretary Olney points out three objections to this proposal: First, that the commission of four might be equally divided in its opinions; second, that no provision is suggested for determining the existence and good faith of British settlements in the disputed territory; and, third, that under the proposed reservations, if the tribunal should award certain territory to Venezuela, it would depend upon the caprice of Great Britain whether or not she got it.

There are other difficulties. What questions shall go before the proposed tribunal? And shall the awards of the tribunal be in all cases binding? To these questions Lord Salisbury and Secretary Olney give different answers.

Both agree that a tribunal shall be constituted by the appointment of arbitrators by each judicial officers of each nation, the arbitrators thus chosen to select an umpire to settle disagreements; and that certain classes of questions, such as complaints of one power against the officers of the other, pecuniary claims for small amounts, diplomatic and consular privileges, and rights of fishery, access, navigation or commercial privilege shall be submitted to arbitration, and that the results shall be binding.

But with reference to more important questions, and especially those which involve territorial claims, there is a wide difference of opinion. Secretary Olney's view is that all questions should be submitted to arbitration, unless expressly withdrawn by the action of our congress or of the British parliament; and that, when once submitted, the awards should be binding upon both parties.

Lord Salisbury cannot agree that the awards of the tribunal in cases of territorial claims shall be binding without appeal. He would make it possible for the defeated litigant to appeal to a second tribunal, constituted of three supreme court judges of each nation, and the award of the tribunal should be binding only if made by a vote of five to one. Or he would have the award of the first tribunal subject to rejection by either power within three months.

The situation which the correspondence discloses is that of two nations working in good temper toward a plan of arbitration, but widely at variance upon the form of a plan. The differences are serious, but they do not appear to be hopeless.

Bank Frauds on Americans.

One of the United States consular officers stationed in Germany has sought to attract the attention of American manufacturers to the danger of accepting resident Germans as agents for the sale of their wares without taking precautions to learn something of the character of the person selected. He cites the case of a firm of Oswego pump-makers, who gave the agency for the sale of their goods in Germany to what they supposed to be a reputable firm, and filled with satisfaction and expectation an order for six of their finest pumps to start the trade. The German agent turned out to be engaged in the same line of business—pump-making—and he took the American pumps apart and using them as patterns, made duplicates in numbers for the German market. There was no way to reach and punish this character of fraud, so the consul seeks to warn American merchants against like deceptions.

Have had four months of success, much more than was expected for the first few months. What is the cause of our success in business? Why the people rejoice we are HEADQUARTERS, and that all our dealings are upright and honest and for that reason they patronize us. We wish to thank those who have already placed confidence in us, and hope to show more patronage by doing all our patients who deal with us honestly. Our Examination is FREE and Prices the Very Lowest.

The eye should be properly fitted and treated as it is the most important part of one's person. Without your eyesight you can do nothing. So it is for your own advantage that you go where you have your eyes properly treated, as this is the place, as we do nothing but treat the eye, so we are Headquarters. You are always welcome.

Keep Up Your Scott's Emulsion in Summer-time

What are your resources for the summer? Have you an abundance of health stowed away for the long, hot, depleting days, or does summer find you low in vitality, run down, losing flesh, and weak? Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil will give you the proper reserve force, because it builds up the system on a solid foundation. A tonic may stimulate; Scott's Emulsion not only "boosts," it sustains.

It is a wise precaution always to have at least a small bottle of Scott's Emulsion in the house. Unopened, it will keep indefinitely. Tightly corked, after using, kept in a cool place, it will remain sweet for weeks.

They All Do It.

He was deep in his paper and didn't want to be interrupted, but, of course she didn't care anything about that.

"Did you read about that young couple that went through the marriage ceremony just for a joke?" she asked.

"No," he replied. "What of it?"

"Why, after it was all over they discovered that it wasn't a joke at all."

"Oh, everyone who tackles the marriage question finds that out."

He wasn't interrupted again for a full half hour.—Chicago Post.

Found at Last.

NOT EASILY DISCOURAGED.

The Lady—If you do not move on I shall whistle for the dog.

The Man—Let me sell you a whistle, mum.—Truth.

Quite a Difference.

When a knife blade loses temper, it's dull forevermore;
When a woman loses temper she's more cutting than before.

An Error of Judgment.

"I thought, count, that you were a dead shot?"

"I am."

"And yet, though you said you would shoot your adversary through the heart, you hit him in the foot."

"It was an error of judgment. I thought his heart was in his boots; it turned out to be in his mouth."—Tit-Bits.

How Charlie Saved Her.

"That Charley Spindles is a horrid fellow, isn't he?"

"Yes, but he once saved me from a mad bull."

"How was that?"

"I saw Charlie coming and went though another field."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Prediction.

Johnny—Tommy Jones don't know how to swim because his mother don't want him to go near the water.

Mamma—Well, Tommy is a good boy.

Johnny—Yes, he'll go to Heaven the first time he falls overboard.—Brooklyn Life.

Not Worth a Tear.

Young Wife—Oh, John, the rats have taken all my angel cake!

Husband—What of it?

Young Wife—Every piece. I feel like crying.

Husband—Oh, pshaw! Don't cry over a few rats.—Bay City Chat.

Only Woman Understands Woman.

Mistress—Now, Jane, clear away the breakfast dishes and then look after the children. I'm going around the corner to have a dress fitted.

Faithful—Yes, mum; will you take the night key, or shall I set up for ye?—Texas Sifter.

The Verdict.

Prisoner (who has been tried for murder)—This suspense is terrible! Why doesn't the jury reach a decision?

Turnkey—An' will it relave yer suspense t' know as how ye'll be suspended?—Truth.

A Coincidence.

Shortson—Shyson, until now I have never felt obliged to ask you for a loan.

Shyson—And, strange to say, shortson, until now I have never felt obliged to refuse you.—Tit-Bits.

Victims of Progress.

Many a day's work is lost by sick headache, caused by indigestion and stomach troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the most effectual pill for overcoming such difficulties. W. D. Olney.

If you have ever seen a little child in the agony of summer complaint, you can realize the danger of the trouble and appreciate the value of instantaneous relief always afforded by DeWitt's Colic & Cholera Cure. For dysentery and diarrhœa it is a reliable remedy. We could not afford to recommend this as a cure unless it were a cure. W. D. Olney.

The whole system is drained and undermined by indolent ulcers and open sores. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve speedily heals them. It is the best pile cure known. W. D. Olney.

HYMENEAL.

Paisley—Wilson.

Miss Eva Cochran Wilson, daughter of Rev. Dr. and Mrs. F. L. Wilson, and Frank Beeton Paisley, of New York, were married at 7 o'clock, last evening, at the First Presbyterian Church. The ceremony was performed by the bride's father. Dr. Gordon, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and Dr. Pullman, of Bridgeport, had been invited to assist in the ceremony, but the former is absent from the city and Dr. Pullman was unable to be present on account of illness.

There were no bridesmaids. The maid of honor was Miss Paisley, sister of the groom, and the best man Joseph E. Paisley, of Mt. Vernon, brother of the groom. The ushers were John S. Pullman, J. Cooke Pullman, James Pullman, of Bridgeport, Dr. C. LeGrand Kerr, of Brooklyn, Wesley E. Paisley and Harry Savage, of New York.

The music was under the direction of G. P. Benjamin, organist of New York, who rendered the following programme while the guests were assembling:

Pilgrim's Chorus . . . . . Tannhauser
Largo . . . . . Handel
Intermezzo . . . . . From Cavaliera Rusticana
Cantiva . . . . . Raff
Flower Song. . . . . Lange

The decorations were by Belding, the florist. The church decorations consisted of a mass of palms and other potted plants on the platform and smilax and golden rod were twined about the rail of the choir loft.

The church was well filled, and when the guests had arrived, broad white ribbons were stretched on both sides of each of the middle aisles from the entrance to the seats reserved for the relatives.

The bridal party entered the church and marched to the altar in the following order: Ushers, maid of honor, bride, the organist playing the Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin. The bride was met at the altar by the groom and best man, who entered at the east door leading from the church parlors. The officiating clergyman, Rev. Dr. Wilson, father of the bride, entered from the west side of the altar.

The beautiful and impressive marriage service of the Episcopal Church and a portion of the Methodist Church service were used.

As the bridal party left the altar Mendelsohn's joyous wedding march pealed forth from the organ.

After the ceremony at the Church, Mr. and Mrs. Paisley gave a reception at the M. E. parsonage to a number of intimate friends. The young couple stood while receiving congratulations under a canopy of smilax and golden rod and in front of a bank of palms and potted plants.

The reception over a bountious wedding supper was served by Duncan, of Newburgh.

Awnings were stretched from the street to the door, both at the Church and the parsonage. They were erected by Daniel Irwin, of Newburgh.

The bride's wedding gown was the admiration of every lady present at the church. It was of ivory satin brocad, chiffon trimmings and square train. The veil was of white tulle caught up with lillies of the valley and the bride carried a large boquet of the same flowers.

The maid of honor's gown was of white figured taffeta silk, trimmed with mouselin de soie and she carried La France roses.

The groom's gift to the bride was a magnificent brooch of diamonds and pearls. His gifts to the ushers were gold scarf pins, representing a wreath of lillies of the valley with a diamond in the center.

It is seldom that a bride is so highly favored with wedding presents as the friends of Mrs. Paisley favored her. They were not only numerous and varied, but handsome and costly and embraced money, jewelry, solid silverware, furniture, etc., and all were of the very best in quality. Among them was a beautiful brass and onyx stand presented by ladies of the church.

The bride is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Wilson. During her short residence here she won many friends who are not pleased with the prospect of her removal from town.

The groom is a prosperous New York business man, a manufacturer and dealer in shoes.

Mr. and Mrs. Paisley left town on an Erie & Wells-Fargo Express, last night, and will enjoy a three weeks' wedding tour. Their future residence not yet arranged for.

Among the guests present from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. Hilbert, of Rainway, N. J.; C. L. Dates, Mrs. Storms, Miss Ella Cramer, of Poughkeepsie; Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Jayne, of Tarrytown, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. James Bradly, Mr. and Mrs. George Silver, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Savage, of New York; J. B. Morrell, of Brooklyn; Mrs. Pullman, wife of Rev. Dr. Joseph Pullman, of Bridgeport, Conn.

BAPTISTS IN PORT JERVIS.

Meetings of the Hudson River Association. Women's Missionary Society and Young People's Union.

Port Jervis has been entertaining for the past three days about 150 members of the Baptist Church, the occasion being the annual meeting of the Hudson River Baptist Association, the Women's Missionary Society and the Young People's Baptist Union.

Middletown is represented by the following persons: Rev. and Mrs. F. A. Heath, Mrs. Russell, Miss May Purvis, Miss Grace Wood, David E. Lain, F. H. Hopkins, L. M. Milligan, Mr. and Mrs. S. S. Purvis, Mr. and Mrs. William Randall, Dr. W. W. Murphy.

Rev. Mr. Heath addressed the Young People's Union, Tuesday evening, his topic being: "Saving of Lost Men."

At the Young People's Union meeting held Tuesday, the following officers were elected:

President, D. E. Lain, of Middletown; 1st Vice President, R. K. Morse, Nyack; 2nd Vice President, Frank H. Embler; Cor. Secretary, C. O. Wilkin; Rec. Secretary, Mrs. W. J. Morey; Treasurer, W. H. Kniffin; Board of Managers, Revs. E. T. Hopkins, Rondout; W. E. Foote, Warwick; F. W. Lockwood, Sing Sing.

THE NEW ACADEMY.

Why Work on the Building Has Been Delayed—Force of Mechanics to be Increased.

Work on the new academy building is not progressing as rapidly as the contractor and the building committee would like to have it. It was expected when the work on construction was begun that the building would be enclosed by Oct. 1st, but so much remains to be done that it seems an even chance if the roof can be put on before the snow flies.

Work on the building has been delayed by the difficulty that has been experienced in putting the steel framework in place. Contractor McWilliams expected that this would be done by the parties who furnished the frames, but their men remained her only a few days and since then Mr. McWilliams has been doing the work himself and neither he nor his men having had any experience with this kind of work progress has necessarily been slow.

The building committee had a conference with Mr. McWilliams a few days ago and urged on him the necessity of pushing the work more vigorously and it is understood that as soon as possible the force of men employed on the building will be very largely increased.

An Engine Rolls Down a Bank.

At 4:30 o'clock, yesterday morning, the engine of extra freight train 862 on the Erie, N. L. Rose conductor, W. Nearpass engineer and Rundle fireman rolled over and over down a bank at a siding between Newburgh Junction and Arden. The train ran into the siding and the engine went too far, running off the ends of the rails where it tumbled over. How the engineer and fireman escaped is a mystery, but neither was hurt in the least.

New Engines for the Erie.

The Rogers Locomotive Works at Paterson, delivered to the Erie, yesterday, engine No. 776, the second of the order recently placed with the works. It is of the ten wheel type, and will be used for heavy and through passenger service, and is very neat and substantial, being painted unformly black, without any bright parts, as is getting to be the custom on all roads.

No Faith in Temperance Societies.

A clergyman at Rock Valley, near Hancock, has set the community by the ears by asserting in a recent sermon that temperance societies are of no avail in keeping men from the temptations of drink, and that the experience of years has satisfied him that taking any pledge was a worse than empty form.

For any of those unexpected emergencies common to children in the summer, Dr. Fowler's Ext. of Wild Strawberry is an unfailing cure. It is nature's specific for summer complaint in all its forms.

STATE HOSPITAL UNIFORMS.

The New Gear in Which the Lunacy Commission Has Ordered Male Attendants to Deck Themselves.

From the Conglomerate.

The gentle hearts of the male nurses of this institution have been agitated for some time over a change in the uniform which is proposed by the State Commission in Lunacy. Most of their ideas of the change are derived from hearsay and are extremely vague and uncertain, so that it is indeed a pleasant duty, this week, to tell them that the changes will not be very great—not so extensive but that we should know them should we chance to come across them in Egypt, Port Jervis or any other heathen country.

The coat will be slightly different from that at present worn, in that it will button up to the chin and thus not leave so much room for chinning. It will be adorned like "Old Grimes'" coat, with buttons "all down before," but there will be only five of these buttons and they will be brazen, embellished with the coat of arms of the sovereign State of New York. The vest and the unmentionables will remain substantially as they are and must be at all times worn when the attendant is on duty. All must be of navy blue cloth. But it is in the new uniform cap that the Commission has exercised, to the infl. the powers within it vested. The new headgear is bounded and described as follows, to wit: "Blue uniform fatigue cap with falling visor and leather chin strap. For summer wear, white duck helmet." If this pattern of headgear does not plunge our kind nurses into a "blue fatigue" we shall miss our guess. Just fancy them harnessed up with that chin strap. Why not add a martingale and a bit and thus complete the job? But a mysterious providence seems to pervade these regulations from head to foot, so to speak, for will not the chin strap also deter them from chinning? And that white duck helmet! Well, well, words fail us to describe how some of our male Florence Nightingales will look with a white duck helmet perched upon their manly brows. Suffice it to say that, clad in their new regalia, they will loom up behind and before and will be fearfully and wonderfully made—tailor made.

Supervisor Cook comes under the rule, his coat being gaudily tricked out with grass-green chevrons, whatever they are, in addition to the glittering brass buttons.

When the Commission attemps to uniform us patients in bottle-green knee-breeches with pink golf stockings, we shall pack up our bandbox and get out.

Masons May Lay the Corner Stone of the Erie Depot.

Erie officials are trying to arrange with the officers of Hoffman Lodge, F. and A. M., to lay the corner stone of the new depot building in accordance with the ancient rites of the craft.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years it was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and, therefore, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address,

"All Things Come to Them Who HUSTLE While They Wait."

We regret often during the day that our customers cannot get waited on at once. But we hustle while you wait. This is the cause of it.

The boy buys a 5c Pad for 4c and sees on the counter near by a handsome Cap, worth 39 cents, marked 25 cents. He tells his mother.

The husband is sent in for a Spool of Thread. He sees Ladies' Tan Hose 8 cents a pair. Boys' Plaid Windsor Ties 4 cents. He buys some.

The lady is in to get Ribbon, on which we make a BIG SPECIAL. On another counter she sees Men's Socks, 5 pair 25 cents. Gingham Aprons 10c.

Were you in yourself, your eyes would read Children's Hose 5c a pair. FALL MILLINERY, WINTER UNDERWEAR, and see us hustle while we wait.
